An optical fiber is a flexible, transparent fiber made by drawing glass or plastic to a diameter slightly thicker than that of a human hair. Optical fibers are used most often as a means to transmit light between the two ends of the fiber and find wide usage in fiber-optic communications, where they permit transmission over longer distances and at higher bandwidths (data rates) than electrical ...

Fiber-optic communication is a method of transmitting information from one place to another by sending pulses of light through an optical fiber. The light forms an electromagnetic carrier wave that is modulated to carry information. Fiber is preferred over electrical cabling when high bandwidth, long distance, or immunity to electromagnetic interference are required.

The tensor model of diffusion consists of a  $3 \times 3$  matrix derived from diffusivity measurements in at least six noncollinear directions. The tensor matrix is diagonally symmetric ( $D_{ij} = D_{ji}$ ) with six degrees of freedom (ie, only six of the tensor matrix's nine entries are independent and so the matrix is fully determined by these six parameters), such that a minimum of six diffusion-encoded ...

Abstract. SUMMARY: In this article, the underlying theory of clinical diffusion MR imaging, including diffusion tensor imaging (DTI) and fiber tractography, is reviewed. First, a brief explanation of the basic physics of diffusion-weighted imaging (DWI) and apparent diffusion coefficient (ADC) mapping is provided.
