A lost work is a document, literary work, or piece of multimedia produced some time in the past, of which no surviving copies are known to exist. The term most commonly applies to works from the classical world, although it is increasingly used in relation to more modern works. A work may be lost to history through the destruction of an original manuscript and all later copies.

Paradise Lost is an epic poem in blank verse by the 17th-century English poet John Milton. It was originally published in 1667 in ten books; a second edition followed in 1674, redivided into twelve books (in the manner of the division of Virgil's Aeneid) with minor revisions throughout and a note on the versification.
